A Minute Ago considers the idea of ‘a moment’ through artistic practice: how do we experience a single moment in time, and how do we process, communicate, and reconstruct it. Combining performance and moving image works selected from the Zabłudowicz Collection, the exhibition investigates the ways in which ‘a moment’ can be interrogated through different art mediums.

The moving image works presented in A Minute Ago use different formal approaches to capture, share and retell an individual moment. Simultaneously, commissioned performative works give agency to the notion of liveness: how performance and moving image intertwine, and how the apparent linearity of chronology can be complicated. The layering of different temporalities serves to highlight the relationship between artist, viewer and performer, calling into question how experiences are shared and who determines their parameters.

The combination of these works activates a live experience in the space. As the artworks adapt over time, the exhibition too will become ‘a moment’, changing for each new visitor as the performances progress. From singular events, to six-week durational pieces, the exhibition site will be an ever-changing series of moments, drawing on the precarity of liveness.

A Minute Ago is curated by students of the MA Culture, Criticism and Curation and MA Performance Design and Practice courses at Central Saint Martins. The participating students are: Jiamin Cao, Veronica Nadine Gisondi, Weiyan Liu, Federico Sargentone and Matilda Slight (MA Culture, Criticism and Curation); and Jeroen Bloemen, Delia Boyano, Nic Brannan, Katarzyna Debska, Nasia Papavasileiou, Georgia Pazarloglou, Irene Ros and Leslie Yao (MA Performance Design and Practice). The latter students will contribute performance works to the exhibition.

A Minute Ago is part of Testing Ground for Art and Education. Now in its tenth year, this annual season offers creative and professional development opportunities for emerging artists and curators. Through collaboration with educational and artist-led organisations, Testing Ground facilitates a consideration and testing-out of new ideas and modes of practice, and the development of experimental exhibitions and events.
